

A Alekhine Agony Of A Chess Genius

A Alekhine Agony Of A

Alekhine was an incredible artist and a chess genius, but he was far from perfect and he had his flaws. He married 4 times, he deserted one of his wives when he reached the West, he had little time for his biological son and when under great stress and loneliness he was prone to reach for the bottle.

Alekhine Renaissance by Edward Winter - Chess Notes

Alexander Alekhine (Part 7): The Dark Years. In Part Six of this seven-part series, we saw Alekhine lose the World Championship to Max Euwe in 1935, only to win it back in 1937. After shocking the world (and Euwe, who was sure he would finish Alekhine off once and for all) with that epic performance, Alekhine continued to show that,...
